

New Threat4 tactical headset scores 4.8 out of 5 at NTOA Member Testing Program

Sept. 29, 2011 Toronto, ON, Canada - After a 45-day review of the x-62000 in-ear tactical headset with hearing protection, the newest product in the Threat4 line received an overall rating of 4.8 out of 5 from the National Tactical Officers Association (NTOA) Member Tested and Recommended Program.

We have worked several years internally and with industry to develop a solution that worked out of the box without software and with virtually no training but still addressed all the needs of the tactical officer and military community. The x-62000 is, from what we are hearing, the leading solution in today's market having integrated hearing protection, talk-through and radio communications in a comparably low cost, rugged and comfortable solution" said CEO of Threat4, Patrick Armstrong.

The Made in Canada x-62000 is now listed on the NTOA's Member Tested and Recommended online database available with permission at <http://ntoa.org/site/member-resources/member-tested-online-database.html> and the review will be published in The Tactical Edge journal.
